CLARKSBURG YOUTH KILLS HIMSELF AFTER ROBBERY

ENDS HIS LIFE AFTER FAILING TO GET MONEY

Barnett Leach, Seeking Funds
For Marriage, Suicides
After Holdup.

Choosing death to disgrace when his desperate attempt to obtain money with which to marry failed, Barnett Leach, 22, of Clarksburg, ended his life Saturday afternoon in a rooming house at Columbus while police of that city were searching for him as the bandit who failed in an attempted robbery of the A. & P. warehouse payroll Saturday noon.

The robbery was thwarted by Miss Mildred Hummel, payroll clerk, who saved all but $52 of the $2,500 payroll when she snatched a package of envelopes from a bandit who had demanded the money at the point of a gun. The payroll had been distributed in the envelopes.

Running from the warehouse, the bandit jumped into a stolen auto and fled, abandoning the car and boarding a freight train.

A short time later, Leach went to the room of Ralph Laurence, 1183 N. Sixth-st., Columbus, who is a brother of his fiancée, Miss Nelle Laurence, 18, who lives a mile and a half southeast of Mt. Sterling and who is a student at Monroe-twp high school.

Laurence, who was bathing, heard the sound of a shot in his room and rushed there to find the body of Leach on the floor, a bullet wound in his head. He was taken by police to University hospital where he died a few hours later.

He was identified at the hospital by Mrs. Russell Leach, 1916 Floral-ave, Columbus, his sister-in-law, at whose residence he had lived two years. He was also identified as the amateur payroll bandit by Oral Hubert, 500 Gilbert-st., Columbus, who was in the office at the time of the robbery. Leach was a former employee of the A. & P. Co.

TELLS OF PERIL
Having evidently planned the holdup of the plant at which he formerly worked, the desperate youth sat down in the North Sixth street room and penned the following note to his fiancée:

"Nelle. Read first.

"Although only two hours ago I saw you, I am going to write to you. This is going to be an awful letter, and one the like of which I have never written.

STUNT FLYER KILLS 5, SELF

Army Pilot Misjudges Distance and Crashes Into Passenger Airplane.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 22.—A double investigation was to be launched today into the collision of two airplanes which yesterday snuffed out the lives of six persons.

The tragedy occurred 2,000 feet over San Diego when an army pursuit plane "slipped" against a giant tri-motored Maddux air liner causing both to crash to earth. The lone occupant of the army plane and all five persons in the air liner were killed outright.

The dead: Morris Murphy, veteran air pilot, who was at the controls of the Maddux ship; Louis Pratt, assistant pilot; Cecilia Kelly, 16, of Phoenix; A. E. Eaudardo, a Mexican of San Diego; Amelia Eaudardo, his sister, also of San Diego; Lieutenant Glen H. Keefer, army reserve pilot, stationed temporarily at Rockwell field, San Diego.

Although accounts differed the majority of witnesses declared that Keefer, playing a hard-breadth game with death about the great liner, had sent his fast pursuit ship into one mad stunt after another about it. Finally he misjudged his distance and locked wings with the other machine. As far as could be determined Keefer was flying high overhead when the slower passenger plane here into sight on its regular trip from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Arizona.

The service pilot apparently intent on giving the passengers in the Maddux liner a thrill, dived down steeply to meet the oncoming Maddux ship.

Woman Asks Aid In Locating Her Brother In City

An appeal by a woman in Kansas City, Mo., to The Circleville Herald for aid in helping her locate her half brother, who lived in Circleville about 35 years ago. She is Miss Hazel Miller, 1300 Penn-st., Kansas City, Mo., who is anxious to get in touch with her brother if he is living and who asks anyone who may know anything about him to communicate with her.

"My father was a German who went by the name of John Miller," she writes. "His parents, I understand, were a Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, living in Circleville 35 or 40 years ago. My father left his son by a former marriage, with his parents when he left there and never was able to get in touch with them in later years."

"The son, who would be my half brother, would now be 40 or 45 years old. I would appreciate it very much if anyone living there should have known them or where they are now and would write me. The son might be going by the name of either Hoffman or Miller."

Double funeral services were held at Marietta Sunday for Harold W. Williams, 18, and George Seever, 19, who were burned to death early Saturday when their auto struck a telephone pole and caught fire as they were returning from a dance.

TIME TO STOP QUIBBLING, IS U. S. ATTITUDE

Cut Should Be Applied To All Classes of Fighting Craft, League Is Told.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A frank and wide-open challenge to the world's great naval powers to join with America in not only limitation of naval armament—but actual reduction in all classes of ships—was put forward today by the American government, speaking through its ambassador, Hugh S. Gibson, at the League of Nations' preparatory commission for disarmament, sitting in Geneva.

The burden of the American position was that the time has passed for quibbling and equivocating about reducing naval armament toward the eventual goal of disarmament. Ambassador Gibson said the time was ripe to act, and he challenged the representatives of Great Britain, France and Japan to go along with the United States for "real disarmament."

For boldness and directness, the American challenge today was comparable to that which Charles Evans Hughes, as secretary of state, threw into the astonished faces of the world's statesmen at the Washington conference in 1921, proposing the first limitation of naval armament.

RESULTS DEMANDED
The United States, Gibson said, is not disposed to quibble over methods or formulae. What is wanted is results. But upon one point in particular, the United States is insistent, and that is that the reduction or limitation to be effected shall be in all classes of fighting craft, many of which are now untouched by existing treaties.

Gibson pointed out that some fifty odd nations have recently renounced war as an instrument of national policy of adhering to the Kellogg anti-war treaty. If they are sincere in this protestation against war, he asked, why will they not now be willing to follow the United States in a real effort to reduce the fighting sea complements of all nations in all classes of craft?

"Any approach to the disarmament problem on purely technical grounds is bound to be inconclusive," Gibson said. "The technical justification of armaments is based upon the experience of past wars and upon the anticipation of future wars. So long as the approach to the problem is based on old fears and old suspicions, there is little hope of disarmament."

HONESTY AT STAKE
"If we are honest if our solemn promise in the (Kellogg) pact means anything there is no justification for the continuation of a war-taxed peace. Great armaments are but the relic of another age, but they will remain a necessary relic until the present deadlock is broken and that can be accomplished only by the decision of the powers possessing the greatest armaments to initiate measures of reduction."

"In the opening statement at the three power naval conference (America, England and Japan) in 1927, I took occasion, in suggesting certain tonnage levels as a basis of comparison, to say that the United States is prepared to agree to a plan for limitation at still lower levels which maintain the relative status of existing treaties. This is still the attitude of my government, and I am authorized to say that on this basis we are willing to agree to any reduction, however drastic of naval tonnage which leaves no type of war vessel unrestricted."

The first of the county school commencement programs will be held Tuesday night, April 23, at the Saltercreek-twp school. Dr. Cuppen of Westerville, president of Otterbein college will be the speaker.

STOUTSVILLE MAN SUICIDES

Peter Good, 80, Ends His Life
With Shotgun Charge
Through Abdomen.

Peter Good, 80, widely known resident of Stoutsville, ended his life Saturday afternoon at his home there by shooting himself through the abdomen with a shotgun charge.

The aged man had been despondent since the death of his wife two years ago, according to the Fairfield-co coroner who returned a verdict of suicide.

The tragedy occurred Saturday afternoon during the hour and a half absence from the home of his son Eugene, who found the body at 4 p. m. in a pool of blood on the floor of a bedroom. Mr. Good had shot himself on the bed, the body falling to the floor. The shotgun, it is said, had been kept loaded to shoot crows.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Lutheran Reform church at Stoutsville. Rev. Wenrich will officiate.

Mr. Good was the son of Peter and Sarah Easter Good and was born in Pickaway-co near Duvall in 1849.

He was united in marriage with Catherine Wolf in 1870 and to this union six children were born. The wife and two children preceded him in death.

The surviving children are Mrs. J. M. Newlin of this city, H. C. Good and Frank Good, of Columbus, William and Eugene Good at home, and Mrs. Albert Parsons of Stoutsville.

Hundreds Injured As Floods and Wind Sweep Mississippi Valley, States.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22.—More than a score dead, hundreds injured and property damage that may total a half million dollars, was the toll today of a series of freak windstorms that swept sections of five lower Mississippi valley states late yesterday.

The heaviest toll of life was taken at Tiller, Ark., 90 miles southeast of Little Rock. Eleven negroes are known to have been killed outright by a tornado that cut a swath 150 yards wide through a plantation near the town. Three white children were seriously injured.

The tornadoic disturbances originated in northeastern Texas and spread fanlike over Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, later dipping into sections of Missouri, Mississippi and Kansas. Floods over much of the storm devastated area added to the horror and were responsible for several scattered casualties. Storms and floods together are said to have taken seven lives in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, in addition to those killed at Tiller.

OHIO IS STRUCK
The near tornadoes, rain and wind storms which killed more than a score of persons in the south and middle west over the weekend claimed two lives and caused several injuries in the Ohio Valley region and did considerable damage in parts of the Buckeye State a checkup revealed today.

Howard Rusk and Clifford Sanders, each 13 years of age were instantly killed and a number of other boys were shocked when lightning struck a barn in which they sought shelter at Walton, Ky., south of Covington.

Six persons were slightly injured at Huntington, W. Va., when a

NEW DEAL IN ENFORCEMENT IS HIS PLEA

President Tells Newspapers men That Country is Faced With Serious Crisis.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Before a large gathering of newspaper editors from all sections of the country, assembled at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, President Hoover today met the crime wave face to face and called for a new deal in the matter of law enforcement and observance. He asked for the united support of the press in his drive to that end, and he warned that the country is faced "with a national necessity of the first degree" which is actually endangering the very foundations of the government.

The president singled out no particular law. Rather, he made a number of startling statements such as:

"Life and property are relatively more unsafe in the United States than in any other civilized country in the world."

"In a great many of our cities murder can apparently be committed with impunity."

MURDER RECORD
"More than 9,000 human beings are lawlessly killed every year in the United States. Little more than half as many arrests follow. Less than one-sixths of these slayers are convicted, and but a scandalously small percentage are adequately punished."

"At least fifty times as many robberies in proportion to population are committed in the United States as in Great Britain, and three times as many burglaries."

"Even in such premeditated crimes as embezzlement and forgery our record stands no comparison with stable nations."

Mr. Hoover told the editors that two immediate problems confront the country in government—investigation of existing agencies of enforcement, and reorganization of the present system of enforcement so as to eliminate its many weaknesses.

REORGANIZATION NEEDED
"Every student of our law-enforcement mechanism knows full well that it is in need of vigorous reorganization," he said, "that the procedure unduly favors the criminal; that our judiciary needs to be strengthened; that the methods of assembling our juries needs revision; that justice must be more swift and sure. In our desire to be merciful the pendulum has swung in favor of the prisoner and far away from the protection of society. The sympathetic mind of the American people in its over-concern about those who are in difficulties has swung too far from the family of the murdered to the family of the murderer."

This new and wonderful super-tonic is making thousands of friends throughout the middle west, and more especially right here in Circleville, where many grateful men and women are calling daily at the Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., Circleville headquarters for Spinago, to tell its merits and to tell what marvelous changes have come about in their health after taking this new tonic that contains spinach.

Mrs. S. S. Hannah, who resides near Circleville on Rural Route No. 8, is one of the many who have recently praised Spinago. She made the following remarkable statement regarding Spinago:

MRS. S. S. HANNAH.

"Spinago has done me more good than any other medicine that I have ever taken. For the past few years my health has been bad, my system has been run-down, and I felt tired and sleepy practically all the time. I had a poor appetite, I was always restless during the night, my nerves were awfully unstrung, after eating I was always troubled with indigestion which in time caused an extremely sour stomach, leaving a burning sensation of the throat caused from acid stomach.

"Thanks to Spinago I feel like a different woman entirely, it is the most wonderful medicine that I have ever taken. I only wish that I could of heard of it sooner. After taking two and one-half bottles of Spinago I am able to sleep soundly every night. I have a wonderful appetite, so now I can really appreciate my meals, for I am not troubled with indigestion, sickness at stomach, or sour stomach. My nerves are in good condition now.

"I also hope that if there are others who have suffered as I have would also give Spinago a trial. So I hope those whom have not taken Spinago will see what I have written, and see what it has done for me. I am sure that it will do them just as much good if they will only give it a trial."

Thousands of people have found that Spinago is a preparation before which ailments of many years standing must fall. Stomach trouble, constipation, dyspepsia, lack of energy, anemia, rheumatism and neuritis, all these have been cured and relieved by Spinago and every day adds to the long list of those who have benefited by using this new tonic.

Spinago is sold on an absolutely guaranteed basis and it costs you nothing to try it. The price is one dollar for one bottle or five dollars for six. And if one, two, or six bottles do not produce the desired results the money is cheerfully refunded. Why not try Spinago on this plan? You can't lose.—Adv.

PHILADELPHIA HAS EDGE ON YANKS TODAY

Psychology Expected to Help Athletics Defeat New York in Final Game

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Yankees will face a ten-man team today when they take on Connie Mack's Athletics here in the final game of the series. The tenth member of the Philadelphia lineup is old man psychology, who went over to Mack's camp yesterday when Robert Moses Grove, the star southpaw who was beaten by the world's champions six times in seven starts last year, handed them a 7 to 4 trouncing in his first 1929 appearance against them.

That performance killed jinx No. 2. Jinx No. 2, the fact that the A's lost the pennant last year by dropping 16 of their 22 games with the Yanks, will receive a mortal wound if the Macks can capture the first 1929 series, which they can do by winning the final game today. For thereafter old man psychology will be in there pinch-hitting for Connie.

Rogers Hornsby, who cost will Wrigley of the Cubs enough dough to pave the Lincoln highway with chewing gum, is fast earning his 1929 meal ticket. The terrible Texan's batting average jumped to .553 when he enjoyed a perfect day at bat with four hits against the Cardinals. Guy Bush yielded only three hits and gained a 4 to 0 decision over Clarence Mitchell.

Detroit took a 35-hit slugfest from St. Louis, 16 to 9. The Tigers looked like dumb Daniels when the Browns pulled the hidden ball trick on them, but redeemed themselves by collecting 21 hits. The pitchers committed four balks. Dale Alexander, former home run king of the International league, socked his first homer for Detroit.

The Brooklyn Robins, whose specialty is making stars out of opposing pitchers, have yet to taste the sweets of victory in five starts. They got but three hits off Alex Ferguson and lost to the Phils, 4 to 1.

Other teams were held idle by rain.

Pulling for "The Big Train"

By QUIN HALL.

WHILE the experting gentry seem to be pretty well agreed that Washington will finish the present season in the fifth spot in the American League, the fans are agreed that Walter Johnson, the new pilot of the Senators, is deserving a better fate and they are pulling for him to finish in the first division.

While at Tampa, prior to the opening of the season, the "Big Train" encountered plenty of difficulties. In the first place, some of his important players were holdouts, and, in the second place, there was enough illness and injuries to keep a country doctor fairly busy. Sad Sam Jones and Goose Goslin were two of the prominent holdouts. For a time it looked as if Sad Sam wouldn't sign at all. Jones wanted more money than Clark Griffith thought he could pay. Griffith told the twirler that, if the Senators had a good financial season, he'd give him the extra dollar bills at the close of the year, but Jones refused to gamble. Manager Johnson finally talked the Sad One into signing his contract. Goslin also signed and that relieved some of Walter's worries.

Harley Boss, Joe Judge's understudy, reported at the Smoke Town training grounds with a hand cut in an auto accident, and he was still suffering from the effects of an attack of flu. This kid had shown a lot of promise as last season waned, but he was sent home to report back in a month or two after he had fully recovered. Catcher Cliff Bolton was sixteen days late in getting into camp and reported that he had picked up a case of flu on the way down. Ed Kenna, another backstop, was out at Tampa with an injured thumb. Plenty of trouble, but when the Senators pulled stakes from Tampa they were still confident of causing some upsets in the A. L. campaign this Summer.

Johnson has some recruits who look especially promising. This fellow Bolton is only 20 years old, but he burned 'em up at High Point in the Piedmont League during last year. In ninety-two games he hit for .405, and almost half of his bingles were for extra bases. If he can do anything like this in fast company, he'll be a season's sensation.

The rookie infielders who are likely to be seen with Washington all Summer include Stuff Stewart, Minter Hayes and Charley Gooch. Stewart, who was with Washington before, is noted as one of the speediest men in baseball. Last year, in the Southern League, he pilfered 56 bases. Hayes, a youngster who was with Washington early in 1928 and who was farmed out with Minneapolis, where he batted .332 in 57 games, looks sure of staying. He originally played with the University of Alabama. Gooch, who has been helping out over at the initial corner, is a veteran minor leaguer who will probably be kept on the payroll by Johnson. Charley hit .357 with Little Rock last year. In the games played in the grapefruit belt Gooch seemed to possess the stuff of which great sluggers are made. He is primarily a third-sacker, but he shifted over across the field and handled the job well. While the Senators have Myer at the hot corner and Judge at first, Johnson needs hitting of the Gooch brand in the Washington lineup.

Johnson plans to stand pat on his outfield combination of Goslin, Rice, Barnes and West, although Spencer Harris, of Minneapolis, will likely be carried along.

The "Big Train" is not making any loud predictions, but he's anxious to make good and the fans will be pulling for him to do it.

BLIZZARD 28 YEARS AGO IS RECALLED

According to records of Dr. H. C. Clark, Saturday was the anniversary of what is said to have been Ohio's greatest snow storm, which was a culmination of a four day blizzard, the date being Saturday, April 20, 1901. Democratic primaries were held and the vote was the lightest in local history owing to the impassable roads. Only those who lived near the polls were able to reach them.

Many roofs gave way under the weight of the heavy snow, estimated at more than two feet deep on the level. The snow in some places drifted until fences were completely covered and highways obliterated. Horseback was about the only method of transportation that could be used in the country. Railroad schedules were disrupted and no rural mail was delivered.

Russian Turkestan

Interesting stories are told of Russian Turkestan by Doctor Skoed of Lund university, Stockholm. The Tadshik tribes lead a most primitive nomadic life, speaking ten or more Iranian languages, and do not know the use of matches or other European technical implements.

No roads or bridges are to be found there, except a few remnants from the time of Alexander the Great, who crossed these rocky mountains 300 B. C., but the Swedish explorer had to ride horseback on narrow paths on precipitous banks where a single step aside meant death in the rocky valley 3,000 feet below. Here he was told that many Russian soldiers had fallen and been killed.

LOANS UP TO $500

The trouble is we humans sometimes try to hatch out too many eggs at one time. We spread out and try to cover more than we can keep warm and the result is, the whole settin' is spoiled. And the same thing is often true with folks who try to keep up their payments on scattered debts. The doctor or dentist or somebody is pretty sure to get left out in the cold, and even the fair and lenient grocer-man may eventually shut off the meal ticket because he cannot wait.

It's just about impossible to satisfy anybody if you have everybody to satisfy. But with debts all paid and only one small payment to make each month you satisfy all—including yourself.

Will Hays Sues Wife

Former chairman of the Republican Committee and czar of the movies, Will Hays, top, has filed suit in Sullivan, Ind., court for absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Helen Thomas Hays, and custody of their 14-year-old son. The suit states grounds of incompatibility, yet Hollywood wonders as only Hollywood can just what is back of it all.

Man's Will Mystifies

Why John Humphreys Plummer of Southport, England, should leave practically all of his estate of approximately $1,250,000, in trust for the enjoyment of chairs for modern scientific research at Cambridge university is mystifying his old friends. Plummer had been in the real estate business at Southport for more than fifty years. He was never at Cambridge university; never took particularly keen interest in educational matters, and had never been a scientist. His only other bequest was an annuity of $1,000 to his only surviving son.

LOANS UP TO $500

The trouble is we humans sometimes try to hatch out too many eggs at one time. We spread out and try to cover more than we can keep warm and the result is, the whole settin' is spoiled. And the same thing is often true with folks who try to keep up their payments on scattered debts. The doctor or dentist or somebody is pretty sure to get left out in the cold, and even the fair and lenient grocer-man may eventually shut off the meat ticket because he cannot wait.

It's just about impossible to satisfy anybody if you have everybody to satisfy. But with debts all paid and only one small payment to make each month you satisfy all—including yourself.

The City Loan welcomes your investigation of its popular loan plan that settles up troublesome debt matters.

HOOVER WINS FIRST CLASH

Tells Senate Agriculture Committee He Opposes Debuture Plan of Farm Aid

(BULLETIN.)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the face of President Hoover's bristling disapproval, the senate agriculture committee today voted 7 to 5, to retain the debuture-export plan in the senate's farm relief bill.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover has virtually won his first brush with congress. Face to face with the first real test of his leadership, Mr. Hoover has cracked the whip over congress in the farm relief fight in a manner reminiscent of Roosevelt or Wilson.

Abandoning his hitherto passive attitude, he informed congress in positive terms that he was opposed to the debuture plan, which the old McNary-Haugenites favored as a substitute for the equalization fee, and he indicated plainly that only a veto awaits any farm bill containing it.

The president's opposition, expressed in a letter to the senate agriculture committee, sounds the death knell of the debuture plan, and by the same token definitely assures the passage of a farm relief bill for which he stands sponsor. Of that there can be no doubt. The well-disciplined house already is behind him.

CRIME IS MENACE

The president told of the fact-finding commission he is about to appoint, adding that "such a commission can perform the greatest of service to our generation."

Prohibition was mentioned merely as "one segment of our problem," except that Mr. Hoover denied vigorously that the eighteenth amendment had materially affected the increase in crime.

"In order to dispell certain illusions in the public mind on this subject," he asserted, "let me say at once that while violations of law have been increased by inclusion of crimes under the eighteenth amendment and by vast sums that are poured into the hands of the criminal classes by the patronage of illicit liquor by otherwise responsible citizens, yet this is but one segment of our problem. I have purposely cited the extent of murder, burglary, robbery, forgery and embezzlement, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the eighteenth amendment. In fact, of the total number of convictions for felony last year, less than eight percent came from that source. It is therefore but a sector of the invasion of lawlessness."

Indirectly, however, the executive came back to the prohibition problem when he asserted that "no individual has the right to determine what law shall be obeyed and what law shall not be enforced."

"If a law is wrong," he said, "its rigid enforcement is the surest guaranty of its repeal. If it is right, its enforcement is the

FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING END; KONJOLA LAUDED

"I Have New and Splendid Health All Over," Declares Lady Who Found a Surprise in New Compound.

MRS. KATHERINE NEMENS

"Stomach trouble and nervousness just about made a wreck of me in five years, and to be well again gives me more joy than I can describe," said Mrs. Katherine Nemens, 283 Hollywood Boulevard, Youngstown.

"The lightest foods caused gas, bloating and general misery. I could not sleep at night, I was so nervous, and sat up most every night reading, knowing that pain and suffering were sure and certain if I laid down. The smallest noises irritated me, and my general health was running low. After meals the gas pressure was so severe that I felt like my heart would stop any minute."

"I read day after day, of Konjola's remarkable achievements and decided to give it a trial. Today my nerves are as strong as steel. Every sign of indigestion has disappeared. I can eat and sleep like a normal, healthy person. A change like this, it seems to me, is little less than a miracle. Konjola will always have a place in my home."

Sticks With Torch Slayer Husband

quickest method of compelling respect for it."

"Whatever the value of any law may be, the enforcement of that law written in plain terms upon our statute books is not, in my mind, a debatable question. Law should be observed and must be enforced until it is repealed by the proper processes of our democracy. The duty to enforce the law rests upon every public official and the duty to obey its rests upon every citizen."

The revitalization of the law-enforcement agencies, President Hoover said, should be undertaken through systematic constructive building. He condemned "dramatic displays and violent attacks in order to make headlines" and he attacked the practice of "violating the law through the misuse of the law in its enforcements."

The letter follows:

"This is just after the terrible thing which I just did. I'm awfully sorry I did it and hope someday you will forgive me and think of me as you used to."

BIBLE THOUGHT

THE LORD KNOWETH—We to them that devised iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! They covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away; so they oppress a man and his house. Therefore thus saith the Lord; Behold, against this family do I devise an evil.—Micah 2:1, 2, 3.

PRAYER—We, Lord, would seek Thy kingdom and Thy righteousness assured that all else we need Thou wilt give to us.

THE FARM BILL

Consider the farm relief bill introduced in the lower branch of congress.

It discards the scheme of valorization, or of government price-fixing for farm products, or any form of utilizing governmental authority or resources to create artificially a domestic price and to sustain it by disposing in foreign markets of an arbitrarily determined surplus at a loss. It does not propose to promote overproduction by placing a premium on surplus crops. Neither does it favor waste and inefficiency by guaranteeing the farmer a profit irrespective of the cost of production.

But it does go the limit in offering government aid—financial, advisory, educational, fact-finding service—to the farm industry to so control its product as to command the greatest possible advantage in the markets of the world.

Under this bill, should it become law, the government would, by generous and timely loans, make it possible for the farmer to hold his product for a favorable market. It is because the producer of foodstuffs has neither the credit nor the facilities to store his products that he often takes an inadequate profit or a loss.

The house bill conforms to President Hoover's program of farm relief and would receive his signature were it to pass congress. A few self-exploiting politicians should not have the power to substitute a less acceptable measure.

PROGRESS OF EDUCATION

When the craftsman becomes dissatisfied with his own handicraft it is time a change were wrought. That is the situation in which the nation now finds its educators and the educational system of their own making. Education in the United States has no more severe critics than the university and college professors and the school teacher.

The American Philosophical Society recently asked for expressions of opinion from prominent educators on the present state of education. They were instantly forthcoming, but were far from favorable to the system prevailing in the public schools and colleges.

That methods of mass production applied to education are producing men and women who are uniformly mediocre seems to be the consensus of the letters received by the society. One educator asked a complete revision of our system of education from the elementary school to the university. Another said the nation's slogan is "education without effort, information painlessly imparted."

Is not this situation full of promise for a better system in the immediate future? General dissatisfaction is a symptom of healthful growth, particularly in the field of education. Every progressive step has been born of discontent with that which existed.

Educators tell the public that the United States has outgrown its system of education. That the old system served its purpose admirably, but sentiment should not fasten upon the nation an antiquated and retarding institution. That America is advancing intellectually and her system of education must keep pace with this advance.

Heroic Self-Sacrifice

When Jerusalem was taken there were three strongholds: One—Masada—endured a siege for three years, but the commander of the town realized at length that there was no hope of escape except by death and decided to anticipate their fate. Each man slew his wife and children, ten men were selected to slay the rest, one man slew the other nine, fired the palace and fell on his own sword. When the place was finally stormed there were found living two old women and five children hidden in caves.

Doctor Removes Pin From Lung of Child

Philadelphia.—Eight-year-old Freddy Shepherd of Hamilton, Ont., is out of death's reach.—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, noted surgeon, removed a straight pin lodged deep in one of the youngster's lungs. The operation, one of the most amazing in Philadelphia's history, was performed at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate hospital.

The shepherd boy, rushed here by authorities of the Hamilton hospital, was put under ether at 2:30 p. m. and a half hour later it was announced that Doctor Jackson had successfully removed the pin which had endangered the boy's life for 11 days. Had the pin remained in the youth's lung much longer it would have caused an infection and certain death.

FINDER WILL RAISE "DREAM ISLE," SUNK IN PACIFIC

American Contractor Buys Ship From MacMillan, the Explorer, for the Expedition.

Cleveland.—A "dream" island sunk in the Pacific ocean off the California coast is the destination of a cruise headed by R. M. Bramley, paying contractor, who has bought the steam yacht Peary from Donald B. MacMillan, explorer, for the expedition.

The island lies under 20 feet of water. Bramley says it was revealed to him in a dream while he was in Cleveland. So vivid was his dream and so inviting was the prospect of exploration and discovery in seas sailed for centuries by ships of every nation that Bramley set out in search of his island while in California.

A ship was chartered and he made soundings for days without success. He gave up the idea and was about to return when persistent promptings to find his "dream island" caused him to charter an airplane. He found it plainly visible from the cockpit, he said, in 15 or 20 feet of water.

Now he means to build a breakwater about the place, pump sand from the bottom of the sea to make new land and erect a fishing and outfit paradise.

"It may be fantastic," Bramley said, but investigation of stone prices for the wall about his island demonstrate his earnestness to go through with the plan anyhow. The Peary is a fitting ship for the cruise. Its history is as colorful as some aspects of Bramley's dream. It was built first by the French government as a mine sweeper, but lay in dry dock until a private purchaser fitted it luxuriously as a yacht. Then Commander MacMillan bought it for the Arctic expedition of 1925 with Commander Richard E. Byrd. He named it the Peary in honor of Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, his commander on the expedition which discovered the North pole.

MacMillan, here for a series of lectures, was in negotiations for the sale of the ship to Hall, which planned to make a war vessel of it, when Bramley appeared with the purchase price. It is now at anchor in Boston.

200 Lotharios Fooled; Riot Wrecks Concert

Berlin.—Berlin's most famous concert hall, the Philharmonic, was the scene of an amazing riot. A man rose from his front row seat during the concert and shouted: "I have been the victim of a publicity gag. I have come here in reply to a letter I got after I replied to a newspaper advertisement stating that a beautiful young blonde with an independent income desires to make the acquaintance of a gentleman, with a view to marriage. The letter invited me to be present here in the first few rows at this concert, when I would be able to spot the lady by the fact that she was holding a bouquet of white roses here."

With these words about 200 men, all seated in the front rows, rose up and said they had been similarly deceived and demanded their money back. The rest of the audience, after loud outbursts of laughter, protested violently, and the two factions soon came to blows. They were separated by police who made a baton charge. The indignant deceived would-be lovers then rose and left the hall disgustfully, all 200 of them.

A SINGLE CLUB PLAYER

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

FOR twenty years Irene Robeline struggled cheerfully along as the wife of Guinn Holden, Texas minister. Beneath a cheery smile was a bruised heart. Irene could never capture Holden's love for his first wife, Lilith, that now was given to his beautiful blonde daughter named after her dead mother. Lilith was spoiled by her adoring father. Tina, his daughter by Irene, a dazzling brunette with Ross, Lundy and Patricia, younger children, all came second in his affections. When Lilith goes to New York for a year's music study she meets her first taste of grief. Falling in love with Bill Chester, she breaks her engagement to a Texas boy. Bill called to Paris by his rich grandfather, cables Lilith that he is marrying Sally Burton, to whom he was engaged. Lilith, shaken with anger and bitterness, learns she is to have a child. Irene and Dr. Lundy secretly care for her in New York to prevent Holden from knowing the truth. After the infant's premature birth and death they return home with Lilith. Happiness prevails as Tina is preparing wedding plans for her marriage to a handsome local lad. They will tour the world on their honeymoon. Irene is torn by happiness for Tina and fear for Lilith's shame becoming known. Lilith slowly recovers—more beautiful than ever and her father's idol. He forbids her return to New York. Likewise he denies Tina permission for an early wedding date. Dan, Tina's fiance, is conscious of Lilith's exquisite beauty. An atmosphere of tense foreboding permeates the house as the wedding date nears. Sheba the cook sings voodoo songs.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER LXXI.

THEIR wild ride had carried them farther than Dan had realized, so that, go as fast as he would, the journey back was long. It was made in silence that mocked them both as cowards. As they rode back home through the gathering dusk, Lilith watched the trees and houses whirl past, as if they were some strange form of art; watched the white rigidity of Dan's face turned away from her. He had been savage—and only love or hate made men savage. He didn't hate her. . . .

They reached home long after the supper hour, to find the family gathered on the front porch. Tina ran down the steps to meet them. "Dan, I've been scared stiff! I couldn't think where you were. And we thought Lilith was lost, too."

"We were lost together, but perfectly safe," Lilith flashed her brilliant smile. "I'm sorry. Didn't know it was so late," Dan murmured in apology.

"Come in and have some supper," said Irene.

When Sheba entered the dining room in response to Tina's call, she shot a look of cold malignancy at Lilith.

Lilith took only a glass of iced tea and then said, "I have a headache. I think I'll go to bed."

Upstairs in her room she sat before her dressing table, awaiting her face with cold cream. Her thoughts seethed—but one must cold cream one's face, no matter what happens to pride. The clumsy fool had thwarted her. But there were five days left. . . . A knock sounded at her door. "Come in. Oh, damn!"

Irene entered and came close to the girl.

"It was thoughtless of you, Lilith, to go off with Dan like that."

"Thoughtless?" The arched eyebrows lifted, in a gesture that lost something of dignity on account of the cold cream. Not thoughtless, no.

"Inconsiderate. Tina was worried when he didn't come or 'phone."

"So? Did she think her bridegroom had eloped with me?"

"She thought something might have happened to him."

"Well, something might have happened to him—but as it chances, it didn't. He was perfectly safe."

Irene moved closer to her. "We must make Tina's last little while at home as happy as we can, dear. In just five days she'll be married and gone."

"Yes, the time is short."

Lilith stroked her cheeks with upward movements, scanning her countenance in the mirror. The sleeveless blue chiffon negligee revealed all the graceful movements of her white arms, all the beauty of her neck and shoulders that gleamed perfect under the light from the rose-shaded lamp on the dressing table.

Downstairs Tina was softly touching the piano keys, and then she began to sing a foolish little love song that Dan liked. Dan would be bending over her in devotion, doing penance for his mental unfaithfulness.

Lilith was almost blinded by her swift hatred of them both, of her father, her stepmother, of Sheba.

"What a queer thing to do! You'd think she was stealing something," Lilith told herself. Then she closed her eyes. "Old Sheba must be going crazy."

"Girls, time to get up," called Irene in the hall. "This is Thursday and so much to be done. We have all got to fly around these days."

"Be right down," came Tina's sleepy voice that held a joyous note even in its laziness.

Tina could wake up with happy thoughts, could look forward to a day that held love and pride for her, while she—

Lilith called out wearily, "Yes, Mother, I'm coming."

Sheba slunk out of the room with a backward glance as Lilith sat up on the edge of the bed. The hall clock struck nine. As if any human hour were of significance to anyone! The sound of the grass scissors clipping the borders on the lawn cut through the silence, and a breeze flapped past the white curtains to touch her fevered cheeks with coolness.

Her father called up the stairway. "Lilith, want to drive with me to see a couple of sickies?"

"I believe not, Father."

"I'll go with you, Dad," Tina's gay voice called out. "Can you wait till I've had a cup of coffee?"

"Yes, hurry."

"I know I'm a poor substitute for Lilith, but since I'm going to leave you for a year maybe you can put up with me this once."

The jesting tenderness of her tone trailed off as Tina raced about her room in the business of dressing.

That noon, as the family sat at the table, Sheba answered the telephone and came back to the dining room.

"Mister Dan at the 'phone," she announced.

Tina sprang up, her face irradiated as always at the mention of his name.

But Sheba raised her hand in arresting gesture. "He say he want to speak to Miss Lily."

"Oh, does he?" Tina subsided in her chair.

Lilith excused herself and went into the hall. "Hello."

"Lilith," came Dan's impetuous voice. "I wanted to speak to you."

"Yes?"

"I wanted to explain—about yesterday. Are you going to be downtown today?"

"Perhaps."

"If—if you were where you were yesterday, at the same time, I could meet you—and bring you home. How about it?"

"Perhaps."

"Do, Lilith," she said softly, and then she hung up the receiver.

She stood for a moment, her hand on the telephone table. Then she moved lightly up the stairs to her room and closed the door.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

AN ANSWER TO ALOOF

Editor, The Circleville Herald: It was with interest and humor that I read your letter of Helpful Notes which appeared in the Herald recently. I don't know what your name stands for but you must be aloof from the 2101 citizens of Circleville who voted in favor of the hospital at the November election. I guess you are old enough to vote, and I guess that you know the city fathers didn't have anything to say about building the hospital for it was the 2101 citizens of Circleville who were progressive enough to realize that a hospital is an asset to any city. Sure there has been a lot of reading about the location of the hospital site and I see there are four members of city council who have guile enough to vote for the site in the north end (even if some of the south enders say it is too close to the cemetery).

We all admire Mr. and Mrs. Niles for their philanthropic deed in giving the city a site for building the hospital. They deserve credit and I am sure that those members of city council gave this matter much thought before deciding on the Myers property. We are sure that their decision will be accepted with much more favor after the citizens get a first glimpse of the hospital erected on the site selected. The Niles property being donated did not mean that the hospital should be built there. Suppose that the Penn. Ry. would come along and say we have some extra ground that you can have to build a hospital on, or the Mid-West Box Co., would have some extra ground that they would like to give for that purpose, would the hospital have to be built there?

The State Board of Health has the authority in all matters pertaining to sewers and we believe you will be much enlightened to get further information on this matter before you blame the city fathers on this expenditure.

It has never been the intention of the hospital commission or any members of city council to build a big 50-room hospital as you make light of. They have more sense than that and as business men and good citizens they are acting in this capacity with the interests of the city at heart. It isn't necessary to plan on having conveniences at the city hospital for the doctors who play golf, for there are enough citizens in Circleville to see that the Pickaway Country club was established and there are enough to see that there is more pleasure in life than just trying to tell others that they don't know what they are doing.

As for the onion bed there will be more pleasure in seeing that such a thing is possible out in the country? Hospital site than trying to crowd a garden spot in the built up residential section. They expect to have at least two nurses, a matron and a janitor on duty at the hospital and there will be times when they will need more beds than they now plan on (remember this).

Life is short and sometimes many bitter days are spent. When there is need for a hospital, it usually is needed badly. Convalescence in the country? Hospital would be much more pleasant than in the crowded city hospital and we hope the day never comes to you Aloof when fate would be so cruel that a hospital in Circleville which would avoid the necessity of a 30 mile drive, would mean more happy days to you or your family.

I hope that the day is not far distant when the citizens of Circleville can ride out N. Pickaway-st and view with a feeling of pride that it was money well spent in buying a hospital site instead of using the gift land donated for that purpose.

A Citizen Interested in Circleville.

THEATRES

"HOUSE OF SCANDAL"

Dorothy Sebastian and Pat O'Malley are starred at the Grand theatre tonight in the "House of Scandal", a delightful melodrama of an immigrant Irishman who tries on the police uniform of his brother and rushes out to adventures when an auto accident occurs. A Universal comedy and Fox news are also on the bill.

MILTON SILLS IN TALKIE

All the interest attached to a carnival show without the uncomfortable features of a hard, six-inch plank for a seat and other inconveniences, is to be found in "The Barker," which is the Vitaphone "Talkie" attraction at the Cliftona theatre.

This George Fitzmaurice special production for the First National Pictures stars Milton Sills as the ballyhoo artist with the Colonel Gowdy Shows.

Dorothy Mackaill is co-starred and there is a great cast in support. It is the story of a traveling show that has difficulties with weather and internal dissension. There are many thrills, much fine drama and a lot of laughs.

HOOVER WINS FIRST CLASH

Tells Senate Agriculture Committee He Opposes Debuture Plan of Farm Aid

(BULLETIN.)

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In the face of President Hoover's bristling disapproval, the senate agriculture committee today voted 7 to 5, to retain the debuture-export plan in the senate's farm relief bill.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover has virtually won his first brush with congress. Face to face with the first real test of his leadership, Mr. Hoover has cracked the whip over congress in the farm relief fight in a manner reminiscent of Roosevelt or Wilson.

Abandoning his hitherto passive attitude, he informed congress in positive terms that he was opposed to the debuture plan, which the old McNary-Haugenites favored as a substitute for the equalization fee, and he indicated plainly that only a veto awaits any farm bill containing it.

The president's opposition, expressed in a letter to the senate agriculture committee, sounds the death knell of the debuture plan, and by the same token definitely assures the passage of a farm relief bill for which he stands sponsor. Of that there can be no doubt. The well-disciplined house already is behind him.

FIVE YEARS OF SUFFERING END; KONJOLA LAUDED

"I Have New and Splendid Health All Over," Declares Lady Who Found a Surprise in New Compound.

MRS. KATHERINE NEMENS

"Stomach trouble and nervousness just about made a wreck of me in five years, and to be well again gives me more joy than I can describe," said Mrs. Katherine Nemens, 283 Hollywood Boulevard, Youngstown.

"The lightest foods caused gas, bloating and general misery. I could not sleep at night, I was so nervous, and sat up most every night reading, knowing that pain and suffering were sure and certain if I laid down. The smallest noises irritated me, and my general health was running low. After meals the gas pressure was so severe that I felt like my heart would stop any minute.

"I read day after day, of Konjola's remarkable achievements and decided to give it a trial. Today my nerves are as strong as steel. Every sign of indigestion has disappeared. I can eat and sleep like a normal, healthy person. A change like this, it seems to me, is little less than a miracle. Konjola will always have a place in my home."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at Hamilton & Ryan's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Sticks With Torch Slayer Husband

The many accusations of the police against Henry C. Campbell, self-confessed torch slayer, do not shake the confidence of his wife, shown leaving Union County, N. J., jail with her attorney after a visit to her husband. The crimes of which Henry C. Colin, allegedly Campbell's real name, is accused, include some of the most heinous in modern criminal history.

the president told of the fact-finding commission he is about to appoint, adding that "such a commission can perform the greatest of service to our generation."

Prohibition was mentioned merely as "one segment of our problem," except that Mr. Hoover denied vigorously that the eighteenth amendment had materially affected the increase in crime.

"In order to dispell certain illusions in the public mind on this subject," he asserted, "Let me say at once that while violations of law have been increased by inclusion of crimes under the eighteenth amendment and by vast sums that are poured into the hands of the criminal classes by the patronage of illicit liquor by otherwise responsible citizens, yet this is but one segment of our problem. I have purposely cited the extent of murder, burglary, robbery, forgery and embezzlement, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the eighteenth amendment. In fact, of the total number of convictions for felony last year, less than eight percent came from that source. It is therefore but a sector of the invasion of lawlessness."

Indirectly, however, the executive came back to the prohibition problem when he asserted that "no individual has the right to determine what law shall be obeyed and what law shall not be enforced."

"If a law is wrong," he said, "its rigid enforcement is the surest guaranty of its repeal. If it is right, its enforcement is the

Amarillans Not "Hicks" Won't Pay for Cut Opera

Guarantors of Deficit Dare Operatic Company to Sue Them

THE citizens of Amarillo, Texas, are up in arms against the Chicago Civic Opera Company since the performance there of "Thais" a short while ago. Mary Garden, as prima donna of the opera, came in for her share of it.

It seems the Texans offered the Chicago company a guarantee of $12,500 before it consented to play in the tiny town of Amarillo. Two checks were duly presented to the manager, at the close of the performance—one for $10,000 and another post-dated for $2,500 to cover the deficit.

Today, however, the guarantors refuse to honor the check for the lesser amount, for very definite reasons, and they don't care who knows it. C. F. Zang, mayor of Amarillo, acting as spokesman for the guarantors said "Amarillo is not a 'Toonerville' and we do not intend to be taken for a ride by a big company from a big city. The performance was hurried and sloppy, and the performers were evidently saving their voices for what they considered more sophisticated audiences."

The claim that the place was cut for Amarillo's delinquency gave further rise to the defense that "we are not Hicks. We know our opera as well as metropolitan audiences and we won't stand for any delinquencies."

The unkindest cut of all, however, was that named at the famous prima donna. The caustic editor of a local publication printed a few well-chosen remarks which were cries of retribution from the famous diva. But he stood by his guns.

She and let me say, says Amarillo. They won't find us wanting if it comes to a showdown. We may be little, but oh my!

A Buying Guide

Before you order dinner at a restaurant, you consult the bill-of-fare. Before you take a long drive, you consult the road map. Before you start out on a shopping trip, you should consult the advertisements in this paper. For the same reasons!

The advertising columns are a buying guide to you in the purchase of everything you need—including amusements! A guide that saves your time and conserves your energy; that saves useless steps and guards against false ones; that puts the stretch in family budgets.

The advertisements in this paper are so interesting, it is difficult to see how anyone could overlook them—fail to profit by them. Just check with yourself and be sure that you are reading the advertisements regularly—the big ones and the little ones. It is time well spent—always.

Avoid time-wasting, money-wasting detours on the road to merchandise value. Read the advertising "road maps."
